Murder ... For a Good Cause?

By Eric Tripoli

There was murder afoot on Friday night at Marion Music Hall. Murder, wine and comedy, that is. On October 19, the Gleason Family YMCA of Wareham held their annual wine-tasting fundraiser but added a little twist. This year, guests were treated to a comedic murder-mystery play, a first for the event.

"We felt that after doing this for three years, we decided to take it up a notch. A murder mystery will make it a more interactive event," said Jo-Ann Watson, the marketing and development director for the YMCA.

She led a committee in the vetting process for scripts and helped find the actors, who rehearsed for about six weeks prior to the production.

"I think it's a very enthusiastic group. We're all here for a good cause. Everything we have tonight is donated from businesses and individuals. It really takes the full support of the community to make the Y what it is today," said Nancy Edwards, who serves on the Board of Managers for the center.

The community turned out in full force on Friday night. Scores of people packed the auditorium of the Music Hall to support the YMCA. The play, a light-hearted mystery about a wacky group of people trying to capture a ghost, encouraged audience participation and kept the patrons in stitches while they wine and dined the night away.

At the end of the show, guests were encouraged to guess which character committed the murder, somewhat in the style of the popular board game "Clue."

"It's fun. It's kind of an interesting way to do a fundraiser. It's entertaining and you get to taste some good food," said Peter Ward of Marion. He and his wife, Anna, moved to town in July from Los Angeles and both are members of the Gleason YMCA.

"I like the combination of the event. I'm a pediatrician in the area and the YMCA is great for all our patients," she said.

Proceeds from the evening will go to benefit the scholarship program offered by the YMCA.

"Last year, we gave out about $265,000 in free tuition to needy families in the community," said Laura Prisco, who is the executive director of the Gleason YMCA. "This year, we're on track to give away about $300,000 in scholarships."

The scholarships help families pay for things like

Soiree Celebrates Halloween

By Eric Tripoli

Families from all over Mattapoisett gathered at Dunseith Gardens next to Salty the Seahorse for the annual Salty Soiree. The party, organized by the Mattapoisett Land Trust, was geared toward kids and celebrating the most haunted holiday of them all.

According to Gary Johnson, MLT president, the gathering is made possible by a bequest from a late resident, Edith Schulman.

"We feel pretty fortunate. Not a lot of land trusts out there have a sort of endowment for kids' programs," Johnson said.

At the soiree, kids were invited to make s'mores and enjoy apple cider. Hay bale seating was provided around fire pits for people to sit and toast their marshmallows or just enjoy the fire. The entrance was lined with more than 200 luminaria, each decorated with an original design by a local student.

In keeping with the spirit of the season (pun intended), the children were encouraged to ring the red, white and blue bell in an effort to ward off any ghosts or ghouls that may be lurking about Route 6.

"We've been coming here every year. It's a Halloween tradition!" said Mattapoisett resident Tom Waldron. He and his son Liam haven't missed a soiree yet.

"We love coming here, it's always a fun time," he years of service to the town. She will be retiring in five weeks, according to Town Inspector Andy Bobola, who made the announcement at the Mattapoissett Board of Selectmen's regular meeting on Tuesday, October 23 at Town Hall.

"It's going to be a very difficult pair of shoes to fill," said Bobola. "She's been an absolute asset to the town. Everything she does is first class."

The town placed an ad to the union to see if there was any interest for Cananze's position, however they didn't receive any replies. The town will now place an ad in local newspapers with the hopes of filling the position as soon as possible in order to sufficiently train the new employee.

"Maria's job is one of the more demanding clerical assistant jobs in the building," said Selectman Jordan Collyer.

Town Administrator Michael Gagne said the candidates applying for Cananze's job will be tested to see their proficiency in a variety of computer programs such as Microsoft Office, Excel and Word.

In other news, Highway Surveyor Barry Denham expressed the need for another employee in his department. Currently, he has four full-time staff members, and according to him, that is not enough help to continue the level of service they are providing to the town.

"It's extremely difficult to cover all the bases with the help we have," Denham said.

The Selectmen recognized the excellent work Denham has done with the Highway Department and trust his need for another employee.

"No one likes to talk about adding full-time positions because it's a budgetary matter," said Collyer. "One thing I can say since Barry has come on board is that he's done a phenomenal job and the resources are managed very well. I have no problem hiring a part-time or full-time person to help Barry with what he needs."

Collyer assured Denham that he would look at salary numbers to bring another employee on board for the Highway Department and get back to him.

Denham also told the Board that the road repairs following the summer are very minimal, and heading into the winter, the department is well prepared with both a dump truck and plow to help sand and clear the roads.

"This has been a good summer," he said. "The roads are in very good condition and there are only a few that actually need grading."

Library Director Susan Pizzolato expressed the desire to keep the library open additional evenings during the week in order to provide ample meeting space for groups and nonprofit organizations who need the space to convene. She proposed keeping the library open later on both Thursdays and Sundays.

"By adding just six hours a week, that gives us a lot more opportunity to hold meetings in the library," she said. "It would be great to offer the community some additional hours in their library."

The Board agreed it was a good idea to entertain the idea, and encouraged Pizzolato to see if her staff could accommodate the new hours.

"We use the library a lot, it's a great resource," said Selectman Tyler Macallister.

Harbormaster Horace Field met with the Board to discuss an alternative plan to replace the float at Barstow Wharf. The float, which was installed in 1958, needs to be replaced before next summer. In order to replace it, it would cost the town $25,000. However, they would receive nothing in return to make back the money.

Field proposed spending $34,000 for a more expensive float that would hold between 20 - 25 dinghy spots for residents. Charging $100 per spot, the town would receive $2,500 annually, and would make back the money from the purchase in less than a ten-year period, according to Field.

"I think he makes a pretty good argument here," said Gagne.

Field will work with the Selectmen to put the project out to bid in a couple weeks.

Gagne informed the Board that the public restrooms at Ned's Point, the Town Beach and Shipyard Park need to be replaced because they no longer meet the state's requirements for accessibility.

"They are woefully out of compliance," he said.

The ramps are not high enough to give wheelchairs enough space to get into the doorway. Additionally, the doorways are not wide enough to fit a chair, the turning radius inside the restroom is too small and the partitioning of the handicap stall is not adequate for the wheelchairs.

Gagne suggested starting with the Town Beach House since that facility is in the worst shape.

Gagne also updated the Board on the repairs to Town Hall. He said that the roof of the building has been replaced, however, the gutter and the downspout system have yet to be fixed, and it is creating a severe mildew problem at the building. The gutters have rotted at their joints, and Gagne is concerned some animals have made their way into the hall's attic space.

The town will move forward with the rest of the Town Hall, Capital Repair Projects Approved

Rochester Special Town Meeting

By Katy Fitzpatrick

135 voters turned out in Rochester Monday evening, October 22, to vote for the five articles on the warrant for the annual Special Town Meeting. The event was held in the Rochester Memorial School cafeteria.

The first article, which was also the hottest item on the agenda, would spend $897,000 of the town's money on various capital improvement projects around town. 11 items make up the list of projects, with repairs and renovations to the Town Hall being the most expensive.

Town Administrator Richard LaCamera outlined all parts of the project individually. $250,000 of the total cost of the projects would be to renovate the historic building, but only the exterior. New windows, roofing shingles and siding will be replaced on the existing structure; everything inside will remain untouched.

"We are trying to protect the integrity of the town hall," said LaCamera. "It's the center of town and it's a building we must protect going forward. I'm sure most of you have noticed the condition of the town hall right now is in dire straits."

The building, which is 120 years old, would be renovated to make it more maintenance-free. The current roof would be replaced with 40-year shingles, which require much less upkeep than the present material. Although the building would be renovated on the outside, LaCamera ensured residents that the building's aesthetic appearance would maintain the historical look.

In addition to the town hall, the roofs on both the Police Department and Council on Aging would be replaced for $35,000 apiece. A handicap lift at the Plumb Library for $25,000 would make it more accessible. A new combined gas/diesel fuel tank for $125,000 would replace the two existing tanks, which are currently 30 and 20 years old, respectively. Renovations to the bathroom at the Fire Department would cost $25,000.

For town vehicles, the warrant outlined $60,000 to refurbish two firetrucks in order to extend their lifespan 8 – 10 years. New fire trucks cost approximately $425,000 each. A new highway dump truck with plow ($55,000), Highway mower ($100,000), Fire Chief Vehicle ($40,000) are all listed under the warrant as well, in addition to $17,000 for new Fire Department radios.

In order to pay for these projects, the town would use $277,000 of free cash in the town's budget to pay for the first four years of the payments, until more money was made available a few years down the road when some of the town's debt expires.

Several residents applauded a question raised by one voter, who wondered why all of these projects are being addressed now as opposed to gradually over time.

"I think your tactic about handling this is incorrect," said the resident. "I'm sorry, it is just ridiculous to spend $900,000 all at once for maintenance items that should have been gradually taken care of over the years."

Financial Committee Chair Peter Arminetti responded to the concerned resident.

"We are not spending $900,000 in one year. We do not have that money," said Arminetti. "The reason we are doing them all at once now and we were putting them off before was because we didn't have the budget."

Furthermore, LaCamera explained the building projects and vehicle purchases have 3.25 percent and 2.75 percent interest rates, respectively.

"The market is extremely competitive right now," said LaCamera.

The article passed 94 – 27 for all 11 capital project items.

Articles 2, 3 and 5 all passed unanimously. Article 2 outlined Right to Farm Bylaws in order to help protect the town's right to farm down the road if and when more residents move into town. Article 3 outlined the details of the installment of the photovoltaic project previously recommended by the Planning Board.

Article 5 approved the town to build new multipurpose and little league fields at the Dexter Lane

Town House Demolition Unlikely

Marion Town House Advisory Committee

By Katy Fitzpatrick

Residents concerned that the historic Marion Town House might be demolished in the coming year can rest easy. According to the Marion Town House Advisory Committee, that is not a likely option for the old building. The Committee discussed various alternatives at their meeting on Thursday, October 18.

"Once it's ripped down, you can't bring it back," said Committee Member Rico Ferrari.

The Committee was formed in January in order to explore options for the aging Town House that would best suit the financial needs of the town without destroying the history of the building.

On September 20, the Committee held a public hearing and presented various recommendations as put forward by the Durland-Van Voorhis Architect Firm. After hearing the eight recommendations, residents sounded off on their concerns, most of which centered on the preservation of the building.

Now, the Committee is tasked with the challenge of narrowing down the recommendations, some of which included the complete demolition of the historic building. From there, they will present them to the Board of Selectmen, and then a Project Manager and Architect will be hired to conduct a feasibility study for each of the recommendations. It would cost the town somewhere between $50,000 and $70,000 to hire the two for the feasibility study.

"I don't think that's outrageous," said Committee Chairman Jay Ryder.

After the public hearing, and other meetings held with town offices to determine the need of office space, the Committee started to pave the way for the project.

Of the eight recommendations, the Committee unanimously voted on three of the options to present to the Board of Selectmen.

The first would be to repair, renovate and reorganize the existing structure and keep the existing 18,000 square feet. After reorganization, the building could accommodate other town departments, such as the Council on Aging, who might need more office space.

The second option would be to renovate, repair and reorganize the older and historic front half of the building and tear down the back portion of the building. Major upgrades would be needed for the 140-year-old building, such as the implementation of an elevator shaft to make it handicap accessible. After the front part of the building is restored, the town can assess whether or not a small addition needs to be constructed in the back for additional space.

The third and final option would be to construct a brand new structure at another location in Marion, and rent out the existing Town House to other departments in town who need the space.

"I think we understand what we have in our minds, we just have to see if the plans will jive with that," said Town Administrator Paul Dawson.

After two hours, the Committee adjourned, saying that they will look into dates in the near future to reconvene and further discuss the three options. The Committee hopes to have a formal project ready, complete with feasibility study, by the Spring Town Meeting in 2013.

The Marion Capitol Improvement Planning Committee met Thursday, October 18, at Music Hall in Marion. Chairman Norm Hills and members Casey Barros, Dick Giberti and Ham Gravem attended the meeting.

A Phase 1A design plan by CDM Smith to renovate South Street and Ryder Lane has been completed. There are not yet any plans for phases 1B, 2, 3 and 4.

The total costs for the Phase 1A proposal could reach about $4.7 million, Hills said, but added "There is no fair estimate until we actually have a final plan and a bid to do the work."

Hills also said that about $2 million could be covered by potential grants.

Committee members expect there will be some discussion before the town approves the Phase 1A design plan.

"People are not going to just take in the plan and swallow it. They are going to ask questions," Sanz said.

If the town approves the Phase 1A design plan, it would then go out for a bid before any work could actually get done.

In other matters, Hills participated in a maintenance inspection of various town buildings including the beach house, Music Hall, the public library, the main fire station, the Point Road fire station and a water pumping station.

The water pumping station appears to need some maintenance work, he said.

"Structurally, it looks fine, but it's certainly in bad shape and it's like you can throw basketballs through it in some places," said Hills, while adding his pleasant surprise by improvements being made at the main fire station.

"I went to the main fire station yesterday, and there is a lot of work going on there. They've done quite a bit of stuff. Everything has been painted and they cleaned the electrical room, and they are moving cabinets around," Hills said.

New Lot Proposed for Tire Business

Rochester Zoning Board of Appeals

By Eric Tripoli

Murphy's Junkyard and Used Tire Warehouse were back before the Rochester ZBA in a continued hearing regarding the use of the junkyard's single lot for both businesses. They have been sharing the land owned by Michael Murphy on County Road, but had not acquired authorization from the town to hold two businesses on that one lot. It's listed as an agricultural-residential district.

The Board agreed not to shut down the business, but to come back and start from scratch so they could render a decision that could work with their present arrangement.

"The applicant's intent is to use the lot for the sale of tires," said ZBA Chairman Richard Cutler, as he read from the appeal. "The welfare of the public will be served by having available the services offered by the business."

The junkyard operated prior to the

FRONTLINE FAILURE

I have been using Frontline for fleas just as my vet advised but it isn't working. I have been bathing Homer with a flea shampoo and then putting on the Frontline. The stuff is bogus.

Unfortunately you are working too hard. Frontline and Advantage are applied to the skin on the back of the neck once a month.

They spread over the surface of the pet through the natural oils on the skin. When you bathe your pet you wash away the oils that are necessary for the Frontline to spread out and do its job. So, do not bathe Homer for a few days before or after applying the flea killing Frontline.

I've noticed that Frontline doesn't work for a whole month on my cat. What's the deal?

Cats tend to groom more than dogs and may wash away a large part of the Frontline. There is usually enough activity to kill fleas for the entire month but ticks are heartier and may require reapplication every 3 weeks. So, if you are starting to see a bunch of ticks on your pet and it has been a few weeks since using Frontline, go ahead and reapply it.

implementation of zoning bylaws in the town of Rochester. The ZBA issued a special permit, but felt that there have been enough changes at the site to merit a new application for the use of the land.

The proposal before the Board called for the moving of lot lines in order to create two lots for the businesses, with an empty lot left over for a proposed building. That application has been pending for weeks, pursuant to a decision by the ZBA on the changes to the lot delineations.

Given the residential area of the businesses, the application includes the name of several abutters, but only one, Patricia Fillippini, was present at the ZBA meeting.

She was concerned about the proliferation of small animals such as rats in the area and the visual impact because of the junkyard. "From my kitchen, I could see all the junk. I could see the building, I could hear the [construction] trucks at four or five in the morning," said Fillippini.

Part of the proposal includes moving the location of the contents of the junkyard away from her lot.

Owners of both businesses were present, as were their attorneys, who argued in favor of a plan that would change the lot delineations of the land allowing for the creation of a third lot and for each business to occupy one lot apiece.

"We occupy some space owned by Mr. Murphy. As I indicated the last time, we were asked to get a Class 3 license, and we did get that license before coming before this Board," said Gregory Koldys, an attorney representing the tire business. Some of the services they'd like to offer, such as large truck repair, may not be covered under that license.

"We'd like to know which sort of things the Board would allow them to perform and which they'd have issues with," he said.

"The plan that we're looking at here seems to be different than what the operation appears to be when we drive by it now," Cutler said.

"What we're considering doing, and we haven't brought this to the Planning Board yet, we want to move the line at 37 [County Road]," said Robert Perry, the attorney who represented Murphy at the meeting. As a result, they would be reshaping the residential lot owned by Murphy next to the businesses. "The intent is to put the used tire company on the newly configured '37.' We're happy to work with the Board on any modifications you see fit."

"When all is said and done, we'll have two lots with two entities running businesses on each," Cutler said. "In my mind this would be easier if we had two businesses on two separate lots."

He said, based on the history of the lot, the more that can be defined about the area, the easier it will be for the ZBA to make a decision. The Board requested that Murphy submit plans for the extra lot that would be created by changing the current delineations.

"Our goal here is to clean everything up to make everybody happy," he said.

Cutler then asked the applicants to list some of the proposed site improvements for the area of the property from the roadside.

"This whole plan helps us better organize and use the space we have now. We'd be able to lose the trailers that are closest to the road. Landscaping, parking lot safety, improve the fascia of the building," said Aaron Bates, who runs the tire business.

The hearing was continued until November 29 so that Murphy could have building plans drawn up for the empty lot created by the new proposed delineations.

Grand View Project: Withdrawn

Mattapoisett Conservation Commission

By Eric Tripoli

It was to be another night of debate and argument over the future of Dean Withrow's plan to build a single-family home at 25 Grand View Avenue. For months, the project has been met with a considerable amount of opposition from abutters in the neighborhood in various public meetings. Their concerns range from the placement of the house, to the design of the drainage system, and property line encroachment.

But Chairman Peter Newton began the continued hearing for the project by summarizing a letter submitted by the applicant, stating that they have acquired new legal counsel and requested a continuance so the lawyer could review all of the circumstances regarding the project.

Newton made it clear that tonight's continuance would be the last granted for the project, in an effort to push the project forward in earnest and encourage Withrow and his neighbors to come to some sort of an accord on the plan.

"I think that it's a fair approach and that a warning like this is sufficient," said Tom Copps.

same page, as some made it clear that they were not in favor of continuing the hearing, but would rather vote for or against it.

"To me, it's really an abuse of process. This Notice of Intent should either be withdrawn or denied. This project is different than what was originally presented in their NOI. Personally, I can't fathom filing a Notice of Intent knowing that the abutter whose land they'd be grading on doesn't approve."

"I'd call for a motion from this Board tonight to approve it or deny it," said member Ken Dawicki.

"I'm just trying to come up to speed now on the project. What I'd like to let you know now is that the first thing that has been done has been to make sure that the property my client does own is fully in compliance with the previous order of conditions," said attorney Shepherd Johnson on behalf of Withrow.

He said that they were grateful that the Commission was allowing a full month for Johnson to review the project and promised that the Commission will have new plans to review at least five days in advance of the next continued hearing.

"We understand your time is valuable and we want to try to make this right," Shepherd said.

Shepherd's confidence was not shared by the Commission or abutters, who have seen almost four months of vitriolic arguments thrown back and forth from both sides of the project.

"I think they should be denied right now, based on everything they've done," said Leslie Kessellie, an abutter to the project. She felt that there had been too many last-minute project plan submissions, and too many continuances on behalf of Withrow.

Russ Bailey, another abutter, shared Kessellie's concerns about the many delays to the project.

"There's been quite a few and now, at the end, they bring in a lawyer. It's been months," he said.

"They should have come in with the consent from all the abutters first. We're being abused a little bit here, we're being treated as if we're moderating or facilitating an agreement between the neighbors and what we should be doing is issuing an order of conditions for the construction they're doing now," said Rogers. "We're finding out that the neighbors aren't finding out about the new plans until the day before or the night of the meeting, so we're being used to moderate the agreement between them."

He then made a motion to deny the continuance, which carried unanimously. Rogers then made a motion to deny the project in its entirety, but Newton allowed Shepherd more time to argue his point.

"We'll withdraw the project without prejudice, we'll be back before the Commission with new plans, and a chance to start over," Shepherd said.

The Commission then held an informal discussion with attorney Robert Moore, legal counsel for the Henderson family, abutters to the Grand View Avenue project, regarding non-compliance complaints, but it was short-lived.

"There is still an open order of conditions on this, so compliance isn't really expected," said Dawicki.

"Unless there's actionable items, we can't, as a Commission, force applicants to complete construction.

They can let their order of conditions expire and they can refile or apply for an extension," Rogers said. "If they're working towards compliance, that's one thing."

The Commission requested Moore submit a letter outlining their specific grievances with the non-compliance issues.

Also during the meeting, the Commission heard from engineer Steve Gioiosa on behalf of Paul and Jayne St. Pierre of 25 Main Street. The applicants would like to install a stone step pathway near their home, but would have to undertake some minor regrading around the nearby public walking and bike path in order to improve accessibility.

"Since part of the project would take place on town property, we've been meeting with Town Administrator Mike Gagne for how we can get that done," Gioiosa said. The project would not negatively impact any drainage flow in the area and would be completed clear of bordering wetland systems.

Newton was concerned about the maintenance and liability aspect of the project, since most of the project would take place on town property.

"I think the liability falls with the town, ultimately," Gioiosa said. The stone steps would need to be monitored, especially during snowstorms, and cleaned off accordingly.

"I'm worried about a member of the public taking a digger down the stairs and cracking their head open. There should be more stringent legal framework," Newton said.

The Commission requested assurance that the town of Mattapoisett has considered the liability issue. The members also believed that since the project would take place on public land, the town needs to sign off on the Notice of Intent. Neither Gagne nor any members of the Board of Selectmen have signed the NOI, but Gagne provided a letter of support for the project.

The hearing was continued so Gioiosa could meet further with other members of the town government in order to discuss the liability aspect of the project.

Planning Board Railroaded by ZBA

Rochester Planning Board

By Eric Tripoli

Tensions ran high at Tuesday night's Planning Board meeting as members expressed their concern and frustration at the tabling of the discussion of an article at Monday's special Fall Town Meeting.

Last night, four out of the five articles on the Warrant were passed by over 150 residents who attended. But the one article which did not pass, regarding the Planning Board's amendments to the Home Business Bylaw, was not even debated due to a successful effort by members of the Zoning Board of Appeals to table discussion of the article until the next Annual Town Meeting in the spring.

According to Town Planner, John Charbonneau, Planning Board Chairman Arnold Johnson was about to give a brief PowerPoint presentation about the proposed changes made to the bylaw. Before Johnson could begin, ZBA Chairman Richard Cutler read a prepared statement about the article, which was immediately followed by a motion made by ZBA Member Kirby Gilmore to table the discussion entirely. The motion passed and no public discussion was held for the bylaw.

"Unfortunately, we really didn't get too far into it and it was pretty much a staged, choreographed thing to take it off the table," Johnson said. "There's a lot of misunderstanding out there and I think a lot of it is on purpose. When people choose not to understand or to accept something, they can, for lack of a better term, play dumb. I think the average person in the room at Town Meeting last night didn't understand [that most of the law remains unchanged] and weren't given a chance to understand it."

In order to have a home-based business in Rochester, the current process requires applicants to get a special permit from the Zoning Board of Appeals. The Planning Board made some changes to the bylaw, one of which requires applicants to go through a site plan review process in order to determine whether or not the home is suitable to host a business.

As part of the proposed site plan review process, applicants would have to hire independent consultants in order to verify the information contained in their application and report those findings to the Planning Board. Some considerations in the process include the amount of parking spaces that may be required for the business, as well as ensuring that no more than 25 percent of the home is used for the business.

Despite the amendments to the bylaw, most of it remains unchanged.

"Ninety percent of the law is exactly the same as it what is already in our bylaws," Charbonneau said. "But the Chairman of the ZBA, in his statement, gave misinformation about changes to the allowed size of farm stands and setbacks. But the zoning laws for the size of those structures remain the same."

"We did change the definition of a farm stand, but we changed it to match the state definition," said Johnson.

"The site plan review is meant to help take the applicant's plans and make them work," Charbonneau said.

"I think the changes we're making will enhance the opportunities for people in Rochester," said Johnson.

The Planning Board also reviewed the list of approved home-based businesses, which Charbonneau said was grossly out-of-date.

"We reviewed the use of this list, but it doesn't account for all the changes that have occurred because of e-commuting," he said. The Planning Board decided to eliminate use of the list entirely due, in part, to the difficulty enforcing a limit on the number of employees hired by a home-based business.

The tabling of the discussion of the bylaw amendment came as a surprise to the Planning Board, which has been working for over two years to finalize the amendments. During that time, the ZBA has been absent from the process.

"I happened to be sitting beside Richard Cutler and beside Kirby Gilmore," said member Ben Bailey. He indicated that Gilmore was there to oppose the changes to the bylaw, said Gilmore facetiously said that "everybody would be home in time to watch the presidential debate."

"The Planning Board has been working for more than two years on this. We've had multiple public hearings in various meetings about it. In those two years, nobody from the ZBA attended those meetings or offered comment," Charbonneau said. "They have not participated in this process to date."

"I'm not buying into the fact that there wasn't sufficient time to make comment," said Johnson. "There are multiple ways they could have made comment on this."

Johnson said that he would be willing to add joint meetings between the Planning Board and ZBA to the schedule in order to promote an atmosphere more conducive to cooperation.

"We'll outline everything on our terms. We'll send them a certified letter with a date, and we'll send out a notice to invite them to come. It'll be the only thing on the agenda. If they don't come, then we can decide to post up and go to their meeting."

According to Bailey, members of the ZBA said at Town Meeting that they could not attend Planning Board meetings because "some of us have jobs."

The article was originally on the Warrant for the Annual Town Meeting held this past spring, but the Planning Board voluntarily withdrew it after hearing concerns from Building Commissioner Jim Buckles and Board Member Bob Francis, who was not on the Planning Board at the time. At the time the article was added to the Fall Town Warrant, the Planning Board received no indication from the ZBA that they would push to table the discussion, nor did they receive any communication from the members of the Zoning Board of Appeals voicing any concern or dissatisfaction with the contents of the bylaw amendments.

Bailey continued to say that he would like to take action against the members of the ZBA for their actions at the Town Meeting.

"I would like to go to the Selectmen and ask them to unappoint everyone who was engaged in this ambush. Perhaps they could find a ZBA that is more amenable to working with the other boards of the Town."

Bailey plans on attending the next meeting of the Rochester Board of Selectmen as a private citizen in order to voice his opinion on the situation.

"The things that were said by Mr. Cutler are direct insults at all of us and they should [know] that the Board itself acted in an imperious and insulting way. As a citizen, I would point that out because it's demoralizing and the more things like that are done, the less likely people will want to volunteer to serve on boards. We will drive away the very people who could help us run this town well," Bailey said.

"I think the insult goes to all of us and I think this whole board should show up," said Vice-Chairman Gary Florindo.

The Planning Board may file each amendment to the bylaw as separate Warrant articles for the Annual Town Meeting in the spring.

In other business, the Planning Board voted in favor of a plan to create frontage in order to split a lot on Hiller Road.

Solar Discussion Leads to Dissenting Opinions

Marion Planning Board, Energy Management Committee

By Scott Giordano

Members of the Marion Planning Board (PB) met with the Marion Energy Management Committee (EMC) on October 22 at Music Hall in Marion — leading to dissenting opinions on a proposed zoning bylaw for solar panels.

EMC Chairman David Pierce said it was the Joint Committee's responsibility to provide direction to the Marion Selectmen on how to proceed, but there was generally no consensus between the EMC and PB on the subject.

EMC Member Jennifer Francis stated that the EMC is trying to make any bylaw for solar panels as friendly to Marion residents as possible but were being met with resistance from the PB.

PB Member Ted North said a solar panel bylaw would essentially become a commercial project for land developers to make money off solar panels, which would defeat the intent of zoning.

"Why do you want to treat these things different than any other commercial project?" he asked. "If you open the property for these projects, you are going to attract investors and tax speculators looking for cheap land leases to put these properties on. The solar developers have no allegiance to Marion. These things are tax shelters, nothing more and nothing less."

But Francis said most Marion residents "could care less" if developers make money if it benefits them by allowing them to purchase solar energy.

"There are people who may want opportunities to participate in a community project so they can put a solar panel on their roof," Francis said.

She also noted that farmers profit and can receive zoning bylaws.

North and fellow PB Member Sherman Briggs noted that most of Marion is residential, which poses additional concerns.

"If you have a five-acre lot and you put solar panels on three acres of it, that is a huge hit to the neighborhood," North said.

Despite the dissenting opinions, the Joint Committee agreed to bring the subject matter forward to the spring town meeting; the issue will be discussed further at the Joint Committee's next meeting.

PB and EMC members also quickly agreed to present a warrant article at the spring town meeting to move forward with a rezoning bylaw for a transfer station site.

"If you look at the plan, it's Lot 9 on Map 24. If you look at the zoning map, part of the lot is already in a limited industrial area. The suggestion is that Lot 9 become totally an industrial area as opposed to a partial industry area," said EMC Secretary Norm Hills.

The Joint Committee also discussed whether to designate Marion as a Green Community.

EMC Member Bill Saltonstall said EMC will be attending a Marion Selectmen meeting in the next month and will try to address the various requirements for becoming a Green Community on their merits.

"I think we need to pick away at these things. I don't know how much support we have among residents and I don't want to ram it down people's throats," he said.

EMC and PB members agreed that residents need a lot more education on what it would mean to be designated as a Green Community, and this would need to be explained to residents when they propose specific projects.

"It sounds like we are moving towards [the Green Community designation]," Pierce said. "As new ideas come forward, we will need to be as clear as we can about

Post-Homecoming Wrap-Up

ORR School Report

By Jessica Correia

It is back to business for the students of ORRHS as we all settle into the post-Homecoming week, pre-holidays lull. The seniors were disqualified from the Homecoming skit competition and therefore lost to the juniors. The heat is on for the ORRHS annual Powder Puff game between the junior and senior girls. The game will take place on Tuesday, October 30 at the ORRHS football field.

After Thanksgiving break, winter sports will be taking over the school. Sign-ups will take place during lunches closer to the end of the fall sports season. The winter sports this year will be the usual girls' and boys' winter track, girls' and boys' basketball, ice hockey, dance team, cheering team and the new addition of the co-ed swim team.

Besides sports, college-bound juniors and seniors should be aware of the SAT and ACT dates for the rest of this school year. You can get SAT information and sign up at www.satcollegeboard.com; www.act.org is the website for the ACT's. Most colleges accept either one or the other. For those of you who may not have done as well on the SAT's as you wanted, the ACT's can be another option besides taking the SAT's multiple times.

For those college-bound seniors, you can access a list of scholarships on your Naviance page or talk to your guidance counselor about others that are available to you. Researching on your own or signing up for one of the many scholarship search websites can also be helpful tools in finding ways to pay for the furthering of your education. For all students, grades for Term 1 close on November 1 and report cards will be distributed on November 13; all make-up work should be submitted to teachers as soon as possible.

Homecoming Thriller Lost in Triple Overtime

ORR Sports Report

By Michael Kassabian

Homecoming at ORR is always a big deal; the pep rally, dance and spirit days always bring the school together, but they lack in comparison to the homecoming football game. Although the game was to be played on Friday night, it was postponed to Saturday afternoon due to the oncoming rainstorm. Although this slightly decreased the crowd, the game was just as exciting.

Old Rochester unfortunately lost 36-34 to the Dighton Rehoboth Falcons in a dramatic finish. ORR played very well and had a 14-7 lead over DR going into the fourth quarter, thanks to two rushing touchdowns by junior Quarterback Nolan Bergeron. DR scored with a little over two minutes left, and the game went to overtime.

The rules for high school football overtime are somewhat complex. Each team starts at the 10 yard line in the opposing team's territory, and they have four downs to score. If they get a touchdown, they have to go for the two-point conversion. The teams switch off, and the first team to score and then stop the opposing team wins the game.

In the first overtime, Bergeron ran for another touchdown, but they failed on their two-point conversion, as did DR. In the second overtime, Bergeron ran for another touchdown, and junior Running-back Richie Phillips ran in for the two-point conversion. However, the tough Bulldog defense couldn't pull out a stop, and DR scored on a lucky pass that was tipped several times. In the third and final overtime, Phillips ran for his only touchdown of the game, but ORR had another failed two-point conversion, and DR took the opportunity to put the Bulldogs away.

Unfortunately, the loss puts the Bulldogs out of the SCC title race, but at 4-3, they have several games left and can still come up with the first winning record for Old Rochester football in multiple years. The boys' next game is Friday, October 26 at Bourne High School at 7:00 pm.

This is the last installment of this year's Halloween Story Contest, the winner and a list of the authors follows the last story.

The Halloween King

MORNING !! 9 HOURS UNTILL ATTACK

I awake alarmed and scared! I had a pain in my leg and did not know where or who I was. I Looked around and saw thousands of trees on every side. There were thousands of birds singing. In the distance I could here the soft thuds of deer walking against rocks and the running of a stream. I laid back on a rock, the moss gently tickling my neck. The sun was like a blanket against my cut and bruised face. "OW!" I cry out as a pain I felt that I didn't expect shoots through my head, then all of a sudden the pain was gone. I feel awake and refreshed. I run my hand over the back of my head and pulled out a small syringe and realized that someone just gave me a shot in the back of my neck. "Sorry about sneaking up behind you, Chosen One, but you needed that medicine. You put up an awesome fight last night but you hit your head pretty hard. Sorry Nikki I know you hate it when I call you "The Chosen One" even though I believe that you are."

The familiar voice belonged to Brandi. A friend and an ally. The sound of her voice triggers my memory. My name is Nikki.

I am 12.

I live in the ORR Tri Town.

It's Halloween.

There was a fight last night and there was gonna be a bigger one tonight I quickly remembered.

"Come sit Brandi, tell me what happened."

Brandi walked out from behind the moss spotted boulder. She had dark skin and brown sharp eyes. She wore black, beat up jean short shorts. Her plain black shirt seemed tight and comfortable. She had her black hair in a side braid, but what really caught my eye was the leather grape vine belt around her waist holding a dagger and a red water jug. Looking down I realized I was wearing the same thing but my water jug was blue. I also had a second grape vine design around my forehead and long light brown hair that waves just a bit. Brandi sat on a low thick branch of a tree as she reminded me of the events from the night before. "The Halloween King attacked last night. He joined forces with the Headless Horseman's Army. A lot of the children of Mattapoisett, Marion and Rochester helped our army. It was a brutal fight. It was an epic battle and when the fight was nearly won, the Halloween King was about to throw a rock at an injured girl. You saved her life by grabbing his hand and kicking his head and knocking the rock to the ground. That kick made a loud thud!" She said laughing "I thought he was gonna join the Headless Horsemen's League but he surprisingly got up and kept fighting. Then he hit you in the head... hard. That shot I gave should have already cleared away the cobwebs. We will attack tonight. He will be at his highest power because it is Halloween. If we succeed we will take him down tonight and he will stay dead forever. If we fail, well.....lets try not to fail."

The Halloween King had once been Robert, Nikkis friend. He had been kind and taught her about fighting. Then one day, something happened and he became rough and rude. His smile and his sweet ways were gone. His smile was a sneer. His kind look was now an accusing evil glare. Nikki had lost a friend. Robert became the Halloween King. Brandi had lost more; she had lost her brother. Brandi had been adopted into his family when she was 8 years old. She was 12 years old when he was turned into the Halloween King and now she was 17 and sensitive on the subject. She pretended it didn't bother her, I knew it did.

"I don't think we can kill him! He might be bad but....but...." said Nikki. The word kill and Robert didn't sound true on her lips.

"We have to!" said Brandi "It's the sad truth"

ATTACK HOUR

Nikki held a dagger, her weapon of choice, in her sweating hands. Brandi held a knife that was glistening in the moon light. They were spying on Robert the Halloween King for over an hour. It seemed to them as they watched that the Halloween King was inside Roberts body and the two souls were fighting over who would win, good or evil. The tone kept changing with the each side of the argument, "But i am tired of hurting people! let me out!" "No! your body is the only one the only on that is strong enough to hold my soul until you decompose and I take my form! You're twisted! Who do you think you are? Voldemort?! Hate to brake it to you but someone already did that!"

"GRRR! stupid kid!!" The Halloween King began to struggle and curse as Robert fought for his body but soon the Halloween King had won and regaining his posture went back to the clearing. Little did he know every child under 18 in the tri town stood with their knives ready to fight. This was not including that one kid who brought numb chucks that he bought at the dollar store. A girl that Nikki recognized from school climbed over the chain link fence and started charging with three others close behind. The battle had begun.

Nikki had fought furiously for over 2 hours and took down many evil warriors. However no matter how hard she tried she could not get any where close to Robert...no...the Halloween King. She had to forget Robert. A small Mattapoiset girl ran up and kicked The Halloween King in the back. A little blue flicker came out of his mouth. The ghost seemed to be coming out. Robert's body fell to the ground and an ugly sneering Halloween King Ghost came out, peeling away from his host body he looked down at Robert.

"I am free and I will destroy you allllllllll!" He cried as he began to take shape of his own body leaving Robert's body behind. Brandi was such a tough and talented fighter and now she could go after the Halloween King without going after her brother. She was filled with so much pain and hate that had been building up inside her for so many years. She was wielding her knife that Robert had given to her many years ago. She tackled the Halloween King. All the fighting had stopped and both sides watched as Brandi beat the Halloween King. As the he started to fade, the forest went silent, more silent than ever. the Headless Horsemen's Army went running. The halloween King.....was gone. Vanished. Nikki and Brandi carried Robert's limp body home. All three returned home exhausted but relieved that Nikki's friend was back and Brandi once again had a brother who cared for her. None of them could ever forget the years of their lives that had been taken away by the Halloween King. Well at least their lives could return to normal for a little while anyway....

There are little known byways hardly anyone goes.

Some of these places entertain paranormal activities, particularly on HALLOWED EVE.

When I got out of school for the summer vacation I was so happy and it felt like I was free as a bird.

Living not far from Dexters Lane I would jump on my bike and head down to the end where Florendos pig farm and cranberry bog was located.

I would ditch my bike in the woods and continue on with my pellet gun, knife and matches, you know like Daniel Boone.

Now I'm following a path into Haskell's swamp and it's kind of creepy. The path goes up to a mound. I guess it is part of an old railroad bed that went to Wareham.

I followed it along until I came upon an old trestle. Under the rail road bed was like a cave. You could tell that it was used for some thing, tools, storage, shelter, more recently for wild animals and bats. It was musty and spooky and I could tell that some human activity took place there.

On my way out a pentagram was smeared on the wall with old dry blood. Around the corner there was a fire pit with old charcoal and bones in it. Human, animal, I couldn't tell.

On my way back home I kept thinking it was a sacrificial pit used by devil worshipers. Not here in Rochester, could it be so? I told my friend Ricky about it and he was curious too.

Halloween I found out was a time the ancient druids would finish off their year after the harvest, dress up and conjure up some spirits of the dead for some unfinished business.

When we went back to school Ricky and I planned that at the right time we would go back to that place. It was getting close to Halloween and the spirits were getting restless. In early evening we rode our bikes to the start of the trail and ditched them in the woods. It felt different now, a sense of decay and urgency. We wanted to see or hear something but it was hard to put your finger on.

A black van was moving up the lane with the marker lights on. A man in the passenger seat stuck a flashlight out the window and the beam was getting close to us. We hit the dirt in fright and the beam went right over our head. The deep voice of the guy in the van said there is the cave, shut this thing off and bring the stuff.

Ricky and I were really scared now, but they didn't know we were there. We moved towards the cave thru the brush a safe distance away. An owl spotted us and gave us a hoot and we watched the men in black robes light the fire in the pit. they began ranting in some strange tongue. One of them pulled out some bones out of the bag he had and threw them into the fire.

Then the other man said, take these bones as an offering for the souls of the dead. The man with the bag pulled out a bottle of blood and sprinkled some on the fire. The fire flamed up and it hissed and popped and the man yelled out, take this blood of a virgin and in exchange give me rulership over men. A voice came out of the cave saying "it is written that the power of Satan is yours until next year". The man with the bottle walked over to the entrance to the cave and reached in and

EDITOR'S PICK OF THE WEEK

Local Dog Helps Kids Learn to Read

For some kids, reading isn't very fun. In fact, it can be considered a chore, or even a bore. But what if they had something to make it more fun? Like a dog? That's what Mattapoisett resident Jenna Gifford is proposing to the Mattapoisett Library.

Reading PAWS is a brand new program that's being introduced to the library, where Gifford and her two-year-old Goldendoodle named Sadie will help Center School students improve their reading skills. Each week, the students will take turns reading to the dog.

"Sadie is a very lovable dog," said Gifford. "She has a good personality and people love her."

Gifford is a 2005 graduate of Bishop Stang High School and a lifelong Mattapoisett resident. She received both her Bachelor's Degree in Elementary Education and her Master's Degree in Literacy from Rhode Island's Roger Williams University.

"I've always had an interest in teaching reading," Gifford said. "I heard about using a dog for reading therapy and I thought that I should give it a try."

But they don't let just any dog into public buildings. To ensure Sadie was competent enough to be brought in public, she and Jenna had to undergo eight months of training. From basic commands like "sit" and "stay" to more complex lessons on how to interact with people, the pooch had to learn it all.

Katy Fitzpatrick
katy@wanderer.com

Sadie passed all of her tests with flying colors and was even awarded a K9 Good Citizenship Award.

After Sadie was certified, Jenna approached Linda Burke, the Children's Librarian at the Mattapoisett Library to see if they could start the Reading PAWS program. Burke was thrilled with the idea, Gifford said. The two ladies sent flyers home with Center School third graders to inform parents about the program.

"Throughout my career, I've noticed that a lot of kids don't think reaching is fun," Gifford said. "I want them to see that reading can be fun if you make it fun."

So how could a dog possibly help children learn how to read?

"There has been a lot of research conducted showing that having a dog around creates a less-stress environment for students," Gifford said.

"When they are less stressed, they will read better and have more confidence. I want them to build good self-esteem and confidence with their reading."

Each week on Tuesday evening at 6:30 pm, the group will meet at the library. Jenna will introduce a new book each week and read to the students with Sadie seated right beside her. Jenna will then ask the students basic comprehension questions about the story before the kids each get a chance to read to Sadie directly.

"My favorite part about teaching is that it's a very rewarding job," said Gifford. "When I go teach, it's a very good feeling. It makes you feel like you have a purpose and you are making a difference in children's lives. You're pretty much helping to shape the future."

For more information on the Reading PAWS program, contact the Mattapoisett Library at 508-758-4171.

MOVIE REVIEW

Ghost Busters

By Rob Gonsalves
www.robsmovievault.com

Paranormal Activity 4*. Starring Kathryn Newton and Katie Featherston. Directed by Henry Joost and Ariel Schulman. Running time: 88 minutes. MPAA rating: R.

The more plot-heavy these Paranormal Activity films get, the less scary they are. I'm a big fan of randomness in horror movies, because horror in real life chills us by its randomness. It's frightening to think that you could be standing in line at the store and get shot to death for no better reason than that you happened to be there. And it's frightening to think that a demon might decide to mess with your life for no better reason than that you happen to be there. It's not all that frightening to think that the demon might pick you out because you're part of a family that's had trouble producing a male child, and that you're destined to be possessed and kill a lot of people and kidnap your sister's baby son, and blah blah blah on into infinity. But that's what the Paranormal Activity franchise has become, and the fourth and latest installment follows yet another family terrorized not because a demon just wants to mess with them, but because the same damn demon has moved in across the street.

Unlike the previous entry, which covered the early days of the demonic mischief in 1988, PA4 unfolds in the present day (well, 2011), bringing in such devices as laptop cameras and the Xbox Kinect to help sell the scares, which this time are in sadly short supply. The heroine is teenager Alex (Kathryn Nelson), who lives with her squabbling parents and her adopted younger brother Wyatt (Aiden Lovekamp). Wyatt becomes friends with a strange kid from the neighborhood, Robbie (Brady Allen), whose mother, we're told, has gone to the hospital for a few days. Alex's parents take Robbie in — he seems to have no other family, and nobody asks why Child Protective Services don't step in — and things start getting weird. Robbie toddles around in the dead of night, talking to people who aren't there. Doors open and close. Alex and her boyfriend Ben (Matt Shively) catch a lot of the weirdness on camera, but of course her parents don't take her seriously.

Kinect. I didn't know that the way this videogame system works is by throwing off thousands of tracking dots visible only to an infrared camera in a dark room. The dots then "read" your movements, enabling you to play the games; apparently they also show up on otherwise invisible demons. That's good for a spooky image or two. But it gets overworked, as do a lot of other tropes; a cat is in the house solely to pop up and startle the audience. Paranormal Activity 4 also feels like the most conventional film in the series. In the other movies, we were forced to stare at length at darkened rooms, waiting nervously for something creepy to happen. There's really only one scene like that here; the movie feels far too "cutty," moving from one camera to another, and most of the cameras capture the footage in bright clear color. The eerie inertia and starkness of the past films' imagery are mostly gone here, and that style is what had set this series apart for me.

I suppose it's no big surprise that Katie Featherston, the possessed young woman from the first two films, returns here. She's scariest when acting like a normal smiling mom, but when she's stalking around quietly and doing evil things we see why it was wise to use Featherston so sparingly as a boogeyman in the other films — she just seems like too amiable a presence to sell diabolical influence. (It's a little like imagining Jenna Fischer, whom Featherston resembles, as the Bride in Kill Bill.) Katie's presence muddies the narrative waters: we're not sure if the child living with her is Hunter, the baby nephew she'd kidnapped, or if Wyatt is actually Hunter. We're supposed to come back for Paranormal Activity 5 to find out more, probably. I think I'll stop at four.

Gateway Youth Hockey Weekend Recap

Squirts 1: On Saturday, the Gateway Ice Wolves were handed the first loss of the season (4-3) after winning their first seven games. After trailing by 3 goals going into the second period, Tyler Lovendale provided a spark after being moved up to forward, but the comeback fell short by a goal. On Sunday, the Wolves got back on track, winning 9-0. Chris Gauvin was in net and earned the shutout for the Ice Wolves. Leading the scoring was Robert Maloney with 4 goals. The win moves the Ice Wolves to 8-1 overall.

Squirts 2: The Gateway Squirt C2 team faced the Lower Cape Coyotes in Orleans Saturday, pulling off a 6-0 victory. The win was Goalie Alex DeMarco's first shut out of the season. This was a great team effort with goals by Ben DeMoranville, Danny Flynn, Christopher Gauvin, Robert Maloney and Thomas Galavotti.

Pee Wees: The Pee Wee team opened the season with a hard-fought loss on the road. After getting out to a 1-0 lead, the YD team drew several penalties, scoring on a number of them, and the Pee Wees never recovered in the 4-0 defeat. The Pee Wee team avenged that loss the next day, winning their home opener with a dominant performance at both ends of the ice, shutting down Lower Cape 6-1. The line of Zach Lovendale, Nick Snow and Matt Maloney tallied five goals with Lovendale securing a hat trick.

Bantams: The Bantams took on Hanover Saturday night battling to a 3-3 tie. Hanover scored two quick goals before Mat St. John scored for Gateway late in the first.

SALOME'S STARS

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) You're eager to Ram headfirst into that new project. But before you do, find out why some of your colleagues might not appear to be as gung-ho about it as you are.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) All that dedicated hard work you've been putting in pays off better than you expected. So go ahead, reward yourself with something befitting a beauty-loving Bovine.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) It's a good time to take on that new challenge. And if your self-confidence is sagging, instead of telling yourself why you can't do it, list all the reasons why you can.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) This is one time when you might want to put some distance between you and the job at hand. It will give you a better perspective on what you've done and still need to do.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Resist that occasional lapse into Leonine laziness that sometimes overtakes the Big Cat. Don't cut corners. Do the job right at this time, or you might have to redo it later.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) You know how you like to do things. And that's fine. But watch that you don't impose your methods on others. A current financial crunch soon eases.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Someone might try to take advantage of your generosity. But before your sensitivity toward others overwhelms your good sense, check his or her story out carefully.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Your strong Scorpion sense of fairness lets you see all sides of a dispute. Continue to remain impartial as you help each person work through his or her particular grievance.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Trust your keen Sagittarian insight to help you see through an offer that might not be all it claims. A closer look could reveal disturbing elements.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) With the Goat exhibiting a more dominant aspect these days, you could find it easier to make your case in front of even the most skeptical audience.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Take things nice and easy as you continue to build up your energy reserves for a big change that's coming with the full Hunter's Moon on Oct. 29.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Recent news from someone you trust could help you make an important decision. Also, be prepared to confront an upcoming change in a personal situation.

BORN THIS WEEK: You can be firm in your own views, but also flexible enough to welcome the views of others.

In the final period, and with Hanover leading 3-2, Goalie Chase Cunningham was pulled to add another forward and John Kelso tied it up. On Sunday, the boys suffered a 3-1 loss to Pembroke. Gateway took the lead early with a goal by Mat St. John, but Pembroke tied it and an interference against Gateway lead to a penalty shot and goal in the third, putting Pembroke up 2-1. An empty net goal capped Pembroke's 3-1 win.

Machacam Club November Meeting

The Machacam Club will hold its meeting on Wednesday, November 7 at the Legion Hall, 3 Depot Street. Social time is 5:30 pm, dinner at 6:00 pm.

Our speaker this month will be our good friend from the Plymouth County Sheriff's Office, Deputy Lisa Budge-Johnson. Lisa will not be speaking for the Sheriff on this visit, but rather she will present a PowerPoint on a personal experience with the RHW Elephant Sanctuary in Hohenwalod, TN, which was founded in 1995 to provide a 2,700 acre haven for African and Asian elephants retired for various reasons from the RHW entertainment industry. Most arrive sick and/or injured. There have been up to 24 elephants at the sanctuary, but at this point there are just 14.

Callers are asked to bear in mind the importance of call list accuracy. Please report your lists not later than 9:00 pm on November 5 by calling 508-758-9311 or email gpfnr@aol.com. Members may make last minute changes

MLC Youth Speech Competition

The Mattapoisett Lions Club would like to announce its annual Youth Speech Competition open to all students in grades 10, 11 and 12. Students must reside in Mattapoisett, Marion or Rochester. This year's Speech Topic: What is the Power of 'Just One'? Speech must be a minimum of five minutes not to exceed ten. Certificates will be given to all participants with prizes for the top three. The contest will be held at 7:00 pm on November 14 at the Mattapoisett Chowder House. Participants must be registered no later than November 9. To obtain the student rule book with a complete list of rules and regulations, or for more information or to register, please email Christine Richards at christine9279@aol.com or call 508-758-4771.

Marion Annual Halloween Parade

The volunteer witches of the Marion Art Center have been brewing up plans for the annual Halloween Parade around the town on Wednesday, October 31. Everyone should meet at the Music Hall at 4:00 pm. Costumed characters of all ages are welcome to be a part of this fun family event. Under the direction of Hannah Moore, the Sippican Elementary School Styxx Drum Corps will lead the parade, followed by witches, goblins, princesses, ghosts and all sorts of spooky and amusing spirits. The parade route goes south on Front Street, then up Main Street, right on to Spring Street and back down

Rochester Animal Control

In August of 2012, Governor Deval Patrick signed an overhaul of the Commonwealth's Animal Control Laws (Chapter 193 of the Acts of 2012). These new laws are to take effect on October 31, 2012. One of the changes to the Animal Control Laws changes the period that stray dogs must be held from the current ten (10) days to seven (7) days. Once the seven (7) day period is met, the animal can be offered for adoption. As of October 31, 2012 Rochester will only be holding stray dogs for a October is National Physical Therapy Month and our Anniversary!

We're celebrating with Two Events:

Historical Society.

While Marion is often perceived as a quaint, sleepy town marked by low crime and high civility, this was not always the case. In the fall of 1902, Marion was thrust into the national—even international — spotlight, as an ugly case of mob force, subjective morality and vigilante justice went to trial. Mr. Smith's presentation will explore this little-known event that threatened to severely tarnish the Golden Age of Marion.

The Marion Music Hall is located at 164 Front Street. Ample parking is available across the street at Island Wharf. The presentation is offered free of charge, although donations are gratefully accepted. No reservations are necessary. For more information, please a cardboard box, and imagination can produce in their portrayal of the notorious gangsters, Bonnie and Clyde.

We are very proud of our canine duo as they have been prize winners in their portrayals of Robin Hood and Lady Marian, Rhett Butler and Scarlet, and William and Kate.

Most importantly, they have brought much joy to the residents of a local nursing home.
To witness the reaction of the residents there, when they saw Angus and Misty, was a very heartwarming experience.
Though Angus and Misty bring much happiness to whomever they interact with, these spirited terriers have certainly been a prominent part of our family lives.

Nasketucket Bird Club Meeting

The next meeting of the Nasketucket Bird Club will be on Thursday, October 25 at 7:00 pm at the Mattapoisett Public Library on Barstow Street. One of our own Nasketucket Bird Club members, Alicia Crabbe, will speak on hawks.

These raptors can be some of the most challenging birds to identify. Alicia will teach us some helpful ways to identify hawks in our community. She will also have a surprise bird for our regular "Bird Talk" segment. Alicia has asked everyone to bring their bird books and something to write with — there will be handouts! Everyone is welcome.

OHS Band Fun Shaped Pasta Fundraiser

Members of the Old Hammondtown School Band are holding their 1st Annual Fun Shaped Pasta Fundraiser from now until November 30 for all online orders. The money raised from this event will be used towards the purchase of new uniforms, as well as numerous other band related items, expenses and events.

Fun Pasta Fundraising is a family owned business that operates out of Nashville, TN and all the pasta is made with natural ingredients the old style Italian way right here in the USA! There are over 100 shapes available to choose from, including such themes as animals, everyday fun, holiday, special occasion, sports and collegiate.

On average, the bags are 14 ounces in size and sell for around $6.50 each. There is a flat rate shipping charge of $6.95 (orders are delivered to your home via FedEx ground and are received within 4 – 5 business days). All orders over $75 ship for free, so consider combining your order with someone else to take advantage of the free shipping.

To view pictures of the different pastas available and/or to place an order, please visit our website at www.funpastafundraising.com/shop/old-hammondtown-school-band. If anyone has any questions, they can feel free to contact the Pasta Fundraiser Coordinator, Diane Merlo, at rmerlo63@msn.com or at 508-758-1324. We are guaranteed a 40 percent profit on all sales, so please order, enjoy and THANK YOU in advance for your support!

League of Women Voters Blue Book

In preparation for the next edition of the popular Blue Book, the telephone directory published biannually by the League of Women Voters of Marion, Mattapoisett, Rochester, residents should verify that they are listed in the directory and that their listing is accurate. This can be accomplished by either checking the 2011-12 Blue Book for your residential listing or by going online to www.lwvmmr.org/phonebook and looking under the listing for your town.

In each case, verify the accuracy of your name, address, postal box number, if you have one, and primary phone number whether landline or cell. Then contact the League with any additions, deletions or corrections to that listing. Please note that we must be notified if you prefer your phone number to be unlisted. We especially welcome information from new residents in the Tri-Town area.

Notify the League of any changes by email at lwvmmr@comcast.net or by postal mail to LWV PHONE BOOK, P.O. Box 812, Marion, MA 02738. All information must be in written form.

Your information will be entered into the online phone book database now in anticipation of printing the next edition in the spring. Print copies will be mailed FREE to over 8,000 postal patrons in the three towns. With the demise of the print version of the Verizon white pages, the Blue Book is more important than ever. Help insure its accuracy by checking your listing and notifying us of the changes you wish us to make.

Plumb Corner Mall Halloween Bash

The Plumb Corner Halloween Bash will be held on Saturday, October 27 from 3:00 to 5:00 pm at the Plumb Corner Mall in Rochester. Festivities include face-painting, donut eating contest, magician and costume contest. Trick-or-treaters can go to all stores and businesses for a treat as well!

RCF Crazy Hat Party

The Rochester Country Fair will be hosting a CrAzY Hat Party with Live Music by The Relics on Saturday, November 3 at 8:00 pm. The fundraiser will take place at The Ponderosa, located on the Route 105 Acushnet/Rochester Line.

Put your party hat on and join us! Party goers are encouraged, but not required, to wear a CrAzY Hat to this dance party. Prizes will be awarded to those wearing the funniest and most original hats.

Limited tickets are available for $10 each and must be purchased in advance at The Ponderosa, Matt's Blackboard Cafe or The Hair & Body Solution located at the Plumb Corner Mall in Rochester.

Donations of raffle items are sought. Please email the Country Fair at rochestercountryfair@comcast.net for additional information.

I Found the Aardvark!

Each week, hidden somewhere in the pages of The Wanderer is a tiny drawing of an aardvark. The little guy you are looking for looks exactly like the one pictured above (but don't put down this page as your answer, there's another one hidden somewhere in this issue).

Once you find the aardvark you can submit your answer online and if you are right you will get Aardvark Points! You can then use these points to get cool Aardvark Prizes! Each time you find the Aardvark you will also be entered in our monthly drawing for other cool Aardvark Prizes. If you would like to enter the monthly drawing by mail, send your name, address and phone number along with the issue date and page number you found him in to: Wanderer - I Found the Aardvark, P.O. Box 102, Mattapoisett, MA 02739. Entries by mail will not be eligible for Aardvark Points.

To enter visit: www.wanderer.com and Click on I Found the Aardvark
In the October 18, 2012 issue the Aardvark was on page 26!
